

It's a small world

ABOVE: Trevor Henson came all the way from Newcastle with this display

Organisers chuffed as crowds flock to show

BOYS – and girls – of all ages got all steamed up at a model railway show.

They thronged Greenock Town Hall for the annual event staged by Greenock and District Model Railway Club.

Guests from around Scotland, including Kilmarnock, Kyle and Ayr, took part in the two-day show, as well as a club from Newcastle and a number of book and other exhibitors.

And also there were Greenock Model Yacht and Power Boat Club, Greenock and District

---

By ERIC
BAXTER

---

Model Aircraft Club and Thistle Model Makers of Linlithgow, who were giving advice on making and maintaining model railways.

John Miller, chairman of the Greenock Model Railway Club, said: "We were delighted so many people came along to see the show.

"We always get wonderful support from the Inverclyde public and indeed, from people farther afield. It never fails to amaze us."

Thomas the Tank engine was well to the fore, featuring in a layout displayed by the Newcastle club and also in one by the Edlec club of Edinburgh.

And another of the popular features was a Scalextric racing circuit on the town hall stage. Would-be Formula One aces queued up for a shot at it!

RIGHT: Kerr McAdam (7) and Blair McFarlane (7) of Inverkip at one of the many train layouts.

